

Jagger's Home

In January 09 I was walking through all the rooms at Cat Tails wondering how I was going to pick out which cat to take home with me. When I walked into the last room I saw a petite white siamese mix with beautiful blue eyes, hiding in the back of her cage. I opened the door and she walked up to me and put her paws on my shoulders and purred. 'Pearl' now named 'Elephant' for her pink and gray ears, came home with me that day but hid under my bed for a week when I actually got her home. A week later when Cat Tails was in Petsmart, we adopted an older, all gray, long haired cat, that to us looked like a wolf; who still goes by the name of 'Jagger'. When we brought him home Elephant came out of hiding and it was like they had been best friends at the shelter and had missed each other so much! Elephant still usually hides when company comes over otherwise she's like my little shadow talking and following me around everywhere I go. Jagger is our extremely sweet and social "wolf cat" that loves to be fussed over by any and everybody. Elephant depends on Jagger a whole lot and he is an awesome older brother to her. These cats are my babies, thanks for saving them for me!
